pdf file at sf.net or doc.tw.o site?

Hi:

I recently could only upload documentation pdf files to doc.tw.o, but recently (thanks Marc) I have a way to upload the updated pdf files to sf.net (and I've just done it!)

http://sourceforge.net/project/showfiles.php?group_id=64258&package_id=68737

In the long run, where is the best place to have the updated pdf (and .odt) files uploaded?

(1) at sourceforge.net?

(2) at doc.tw.o site?

Pros and cons?

I'll start myself:

(1) at sourceforge.net:

arguments in favour:

- sf net users can be monitoring the file updates if they wish. (currently around 50 people are doing so)
- some kind of sf.net statistics (downloads?) are monitored there?

arguments against:

- very few people have admin access to sf.net (non of the people at the editorial board, afaik, are admins of tikiwiki project at sf.net)...

Opinions?
